ways given the Orators a hard tussic for the honors. Manager O'Rourke says he must have a good team if he has to steal the players.

Manager Durant of Waterbury has recommended Bill McLaughlin to the local team. Mac showed up to Manager Jim yesterday. He is a third baseman or a shortstop being one of the Rochester recruits secured by Waterbury. O'Rourkes decided not to hold him as he does not intend to ex-periment with any more infielders.

Outfielder Pleiss, who jumped New Haven in the waning days of last season, reported to Manager Bone yes-terday. Pleiss and Bone have kissed and made up, and the former promises to stick to the Prairie Hens as long as wanted.

Beaumont is due to reach Holyoke to-day. As yet Manager O'Rourke has not received any official notice of his release. Beau will be given a welcome when he comes to Bridgeport.

Though he has retired as a manager. Dan O'Neil has by no means lost his love for the game. Every exhibition game in Holyoke finds Dan in the grandstand and he follows every play with just as much interest as though he were on the bench directing a hustling band of Ponies.

Both men appeared in the ring in grand shape, and the look on the Sailor's face showed that he felt confident of winning handily. Had he not met with the accident so early in the contest, he probably would have won. Not only was McKinnon badly handled in his corner, but he was very careless, which is dangerous when against a fellow with such a right hand wallop as the Sailor has. Twice in the early rounds, Burke gave a display of the steam behind his right by putting McKinnon to the floor when he landed on the jaw with it.

All She Had.

In the absence of his wife and the fliness of the servant Mr. Taylor undertook to help three-year-old Marjory to dress. He had succeeded in getting her arms in the sleeves and through the armholes of her garments and had would button them. He soon discov ered that she was vainly striving to put a left shoe on her right foot.

"Why, Marjory," he said impatiently, "don't you know any better than that? You are putting your shoes on the wrong feet."

"Dey's all de foots I dot, papa," re plied Marjory tearfully .- Youth's Com-

Climbing a Water Stair. Even a steamboat can climb a hill by going up one step at a time. This remarkable performance can be witnessed several times daily during the season of navigation beside the Vrang waterfall in the Bandak Norsje canal, Norway. At this point falls in the river prevent the passage of boats up or down, and a canal has been built round the rapids and falls. The ascent is made through a series of locks which
